Henry Ward Beecher, the theologico olitical demagogue, has been making a seech lately, and is very complimentary to the Democrats, because they accept the result of the Presidential election and don't get up another rebellion because they did not elect a President. He may spare his compliments. There is only a negative merit in obeying the the Finance Committee. Constitution. The Democrats acquiesce, not ecause they have any respect for, or confidence in, the dominant party. The latter are no better for success, and Democrats expect nothing good from them, and are not likely to

If the dominant party will follow a example and obey the Constitution in their administration of the Government, they would be entitled to praise they are not at all likely to deserve. Notwithstanding the untoward result of the election, it occurred according to the Constitution, and that is an end of debate with Demecrats as to who shall be President. There is merit enough in our Constitution to save the country if it be adhered to at last, however wrong it may be temporarily administered. The people will learn after awhile what advice is best. They may pay dearly for the lesson, but they will only get it the better. The Democrats differ widely from the dor inent party, and are just as confident as ever that they are right. They can appeal to time from the Union, except by the right of revolution. We do not allow that resistance to the Constitution and laws of the United States can be justified by State authority. The Government has a right to put down such resistance; not only so, but it is the duty of the Government to do it, provided it does not cost more than it comes to.

We cannot, however, deal with revolutions on ordinary principles. Solomon says wisdom is better than strength, and it is especially true in affairs of State. It does not help the matter to demonstrate the wrong of the rebellion. We have no doubt that millions engaged in it now are about as well satisfied of the error as we are. Yet there is the reb bold and defiant as at the start, with more men and means than the dominant party can see or admit. What is to be done? The dominant party have but one line of policy-fight on. Instead of conciliation, add other causes of offense. Put the whole population of States under the ban. Subjugate, desolate, exterminate, until, by main force, the territory is held in defiance of the population. Now, we agree that a separation of these States is suicidal to both sections. All that the rebels proposed to gain for State rights they have lost; and in the course of the pro-cess both sections will lose all the rights reserved to the States; and it is, if possible, to

We shall not discuss the right or wrong of the measure proposed, nor the policy of it. It would be useless. That all just government must be founded on the consent of the governed, is a declaration we have always taken to mean something; and if it has any meaning at all, the conquest and subjugation of a people is in defiance of the meaning. Besides, it involves an infinite amount of crime, suffering and desolation; and we know of no divine right in any government to rule. It it must

The Democratic party would heal this whole affair very differently. They would have exacted obedience to the Constitution and laws; but no more. They would not have allowed themselves to be dragged into a war on States and populations. That has been their position from the beginning. That is the right course, and no verdict of a majority can make it

"There was a time," writes a Berlin correspondent of a London paper, "when Madame Encedetti, whose arrival with her husband, the new French Embassador here, is expected daily, occupied no more exhled position than that of a handmaiden to some Ottoman slave dealer. A Greek by birth, she was kidnapped, carried away, and sold into captivity during the sangulary struggles which attended the liberation of her country. Thus it was that, a mere child, she was exposed for sale in the slave market of Cairo and passed over into the possession of M. d'Annastasi, a countryman of heavy, gave her an excellent education, and eventually bequeathed the whole of his immense property to the child whom he had adopted years ago, and had learned to love. While her benefactor was still alive, Mdile. d'Anastasi, whose original name remains unknown, married M. Benedetti, the consular agont of Fance at Alexandria. Although the rebel line fairly-blazed and the space in front seemed perfectly untenable to anything with life, Wood's line coolly and steadily went up the bill, wavering not an instant, and took the hights, and with it a full steadily went up the hill, wavering not an instant, and took the hights, and with it a full battery of artiliery. Immediately after, Wood assailed another strong fort to the left of the Hillsboropike, which had been constructed by the enemy with great care, and faced with the railroad. He captured this after a long and bloody fight, taking the battery that held it. Schofield, though not as hotly engaged as either Wood or Smith, fought his the opps with zeal and ability, and captured five guns. Steadman comes in for a share of the honor, but his troops thus far have been comparatively lightly engaged. This evening the colored troops carried a battery, routed the enemy and captured two guns. Among the enemy and captured two guns. Among the batteries captured are Hoskin's and Lumsden's. We have already registered at the Provost Marshal's office over fitteen hundred prisoners taken to day. Among the number is Colonel Clifton, of the Thirty-ninth Alabama.

NASHVILLE, Dec. 15.

The army commenced moving at daybreak to-day—Steedman's corps on our left, the Fourth corps next, and then A. J. Smith's corps. A cavalry force moved to the right, and the Twenty-third corps were held in reserve. Very little except reconnoitering was schieved until after meridian, but at half past twelve the order to advance was given, and the whole column moved onward. The rebels evidently expected that Thomas would attempt to turn their right flank. All indications would presuppose this, and they had offered numerous inductments for us to do so, and had carefully prepared their works to receive our force if we should attack them in that quarter.

To keep up the deception Steedman commenced to skirmish heavily on our left, and as our force moved in the direction of that point believed threatened, and while theywere massing troops on their right, we were concentrating the 16th and 23d corps and General Wilson's cavalry on our right. The results were that when the bugles sounded an advance our right wing advanced rapidly between the rebels had posted to blockade the river. A battery was taken by our forces and sent to the rear.

The rebels had by this time perceived that our attack on the right was a feint. Hood soon attempted to attone for this farm yas, but it was too late; our right had established themselves on the main bank and were steedily advancing the while. The Twenty-third corps had taken a position on the extreme right, and A. J. Smith's corps were executing a half wheel, driving the columns of rebels before them easily. Rapidly hill after hill was taken, with little loss and less difficulty. In an hour or so the rebels had presented a strong front, and our progress was for the moment check. It was now visible that the contest was about to commence. Another diversion on

At this writing the flagship Malvern and several of the larger vessels of the fleet are in the raods, but as the sailing orders have been signaled, they will probably get under way. In a short time the iron-clads attached to the fleet were ready and the first to move. The single-turreted monitors go out in tow of steamers; the Ironsides and the double-turreted monitor Montadon propel themselves.

Thus far we have been favored with fine weather, a light wind blowing from of shore. Indications seem to point to a northeaster before we arrive at our journey's end.

Our place of destination will be made known to the public at the proper time. Suffice it to remark that ample preparations have been provided to warrant a victory and a formidable attack on the enemy's works. A Fort Morgan letter of the 20th ult., to the New Orleans Era, says:

The first reported rebel force to this point is said to be at Fish river, fifteen miles up the Mobile Bay. But this is only an advanced post. They remain very quietly for the defensive, with the exception of an occasional shot from the rebel batteries at our gunboats simply to get range. In either case nothing of importance has occurred.

A new rebel ram has come down the Tombigbee rive-, and is now at Selms, having her armor and plating put on. She is reported to be a very formidable engine of war, of the pattern and style of the ram Tennessee, captured by us during the Fort Morgan bombardment. She is expected to srrive at Mobile at at an early date.

There are said to be seven rams and gunboats inside the obstructions, besides some water batteries.

The Turf—Mr. Ten Broeck at Shrewsbury, England.—About the last of the requisir race meetings of this year was held at Shrewsbury, in the middle of last month. Mr. Ten Broeck's stable was largely engaged, and his luck was no better than it has lately been in other places. He ran horses in eight races, two of which wop, but both small selling stakes. Therefore, we hold that he did not have the success he had a right to expect. In the first race of the meeting in which he was directly interested, the "crack" of the stable, Paris, was defeated. In the next, Alabama was beaten for the Shrewsbury cup. Neither Paris, nor Alabama got a place. In the next, a selling handicup, Thais ran third. The Monkmoor handicup, the winner to be sold for $1,000, he won win the Scheldt, a coit by Newminster. In the Attington park stakes Thais was beaten. Peignor got no place in the Jeaningstown handicup, though well enough in at the weight. The Forrester plate handicup was the last race in which Mr. Ten Broeck started a horse at this meeting. Troublesome ran third in it, and a poor third at that. It will be seen from the above and from reports of other meetings which we have given heretofore, that Mr. Ten Broeck is not succeeding as well now, that he has a stable of English horses, as he did when he had American racers. This is plain enough, for his victories of late have neither been so numerous ner so important as they were when Prioress, Umpire, Starke, Satellite, and Optimist were running.—[Wilked' Spirit.

Guerrillas on the Bardstown Pike-One Citizen Killed and a Number Robbed. Through certain portions of the State the nd they some times make raids to within a few miles of our city, robbing every person whom they may meet. Yesterday a party of nine guerrillas, said to belong to the notorious Sue Mundy's gang, made their appearance on the Bardstown pike, having left Funkstown the night previous, and when a short distance from that town they captured two Federal soldiers, whom they robbed of their arms and small amount of money. The first house they visited on the Bardstown pike yesterday was that of James Corothurs, where they robbed him of what money he had and a fine

At Hays' Springs they robbed Oliver Curry of $600, a fine watch, pistol and gun. At that point they met D. L. Gregory, who was coming to this city with a road of turkeys. They robbed him of $28 80, and after swapping horses with him, let him come on to this city with his load of turkeys. All the houses of both sides of the road were robbed by these highwaymen.

After leaving Hays' Springs they went to the house of Jeremiah S. Kalfus, about six miles from this city, and demanded of Mr. Kaltus what money he had. He seeing that it would be useless to resist nine armed men, acquiesced in their demand. After obtaining the money the villains acted very improperly to-Kalfas immediately. We give these facts as they were related to us by an eve-witness.

FEARFUL ACCIDENT ON THE L AND N. RAILROAD.

ed-The Accident the Work of a Vil-The non-arrival of the train from Nashville Thursday night caused many very exciting rumors to be put affoat, and early yesterday morning everybody was on the move to hear from Nashville or along the road. When the train arrived yesterday morning it did bring news, but at last what sad and distressing news it was to all. The train, crowded with passengers, left Nashville at the usual hour, and proceeded to Blasgow Junction without interruption. Just after starting from that point, and when the rain had got under full speed, it was thrown suddenly from the track. The ladies' car, which was next to the rear car, was turned ompletely over, the occupants being all thrown together and a number of them badly bruised by the broken timbers. The road master, Mr. J. H. Kean, was instantly killed and some fifteen or twenty of the persons in the ladies' car were badly wounded.

After a portion of the wreck had been clear ed away and the wounded cared for, the offi eers of the train immediately set about to find the cause of the accident, when they discovered that the switch lock had been broken by some fieud in human shape so that when the train came on the switch it was thrown off. It is to be hoped that the person or persons who mmitted this diabolical outrage will be arested and punished.

Since writing the above we learn the follow ng additional particulars: The first portion of the train passed over in safety, but the three delighted with the performances. The tronpe is hind cars were thrown from the track down an embankment. A lady from Nashville, for injured that she cannot possibly recover. The three cars which were thrown down the embankment are a complete wreck. The road master, we learn, lost his life by attempting to jump from the platform of the rear car, upon which he was riding. The lady who was so seriously injured and others of the wounded were brought up on the hospital train. After the hospital train had passed Cave City a soldier, named Martin Bloss, formerly of the One Hundred and Seventh New York volunteers, but recently transferred to the invalid corps, while sitting upon the platform, stupified with iquor, lost his balance and fell beneath the

J. R. COLLINS. Impressing Times.

The times are quite warlike, and even our losses Are not confined to any limited spheres. For who can now boast of keeping his horses. Unless it's the kind with very long ears? But as Fa her Abraham the edict expressed, And caused all your tables to look quite forlow Your minds like your horses, are duly impresse That the bills will be small for hay, oats and o

And since the expense of keeping your stable
Has been saved by the auard, who your horses is areased. fou can now well afford to set a good table
And help to feed those who are poor and distressed. Tis impressive to know that the good things abound. That greenbacks are plenty and Christmas is near; And, though you've no he rse, the place can be found Which has furnished the best tables for many a yea A place where your wants can all be supplied, And it matters not if your wants are quite pressing: But to impress for your wants an objection's implied And greenbacks, not vouchers, the bargain attestin ince the pressing of horses an impression has left, and many a State of its fine stock is bereft,

An impression prevails, and well it may too.

NASHVILLE, Dec. 18. We have gained to-day another decided vic-

We have gained to-day another decided victory over the rebel forces, and have advanced our whole army about four miles, espuring in the day's fight over five thousand prisoners, among them two rebel Generals, killing and wounding six or seven hundred, and securing thity pieces of artillery.

It was discovered that the rebels early this morning had withdrawn their right and left wings from the river, and shortened lines, and had concentrated their forces on their center and left of center.

Hood's forces were in a very strong position, their left resing on a round of hills known as the Overton ronge, which line completely covered the Franklin pike, by which road he hoped and expected to retreet if forced to do so. In front of his color lines was a line of entreuchments for skirmishers. In their rear, about three hundred yards was a formidable line of breastworks, defended by artillery. There was a space of nearly four formidable line of breastworks, defended by artillery. There was a space of nearly four hundred yards in front of his main lines, which was an open field, oaer which our men had to advance. The rebel right was held by Lee's corps, Stuart in the center, Chestham on the left. Prisoners report that Hood enjoined them to die in the last ditch rather than yield

Joines them to die in the last ditch rather than yield
Our forces were in the following order: A.
J. Smith's corps on the right, covering the Grassy White pike; the Fourth corps on the left, the First division in the center, the Second division on the left and the Third dvision on the right.

The First division was commanded by Gen Kimball, the Second by General Beatty and the Third by General Elliott. These troops advanced on the Franklin pike, the First disdvanced on the Franklin pike, the First division resting upon it.

Steadman's corps was on our left, and advanced on the Murfreesboro pike, gradually moving, however, to the right, and eventually joining the Fourth corps.
Steadman's corps consists of Gen. Cruft's division and two brigades of colored troops noder Colonel Charles R Thompson, the latter being on the left. General Schofield, with the Twenty-third corps, was held in reserve.
A cavalry force was sent out on the Hillsboro pike, to operate, if possible, on the enemy's pike, to operate, if possible, on the enemy's rear, and intercept their retreat. Skirmishing commenced at early dawn. So Skirmishing commenced at early dawn. So little resistance was made that the opinion was expressed that Hood had fallen back to Franklin, but this was found to be an error. As we advanced a heavy line of skirmishers was thrown out, and when they reported that the robel force had fallen back batteries were pushed forward and shelled the rebel line for a time, when skirmishers were again sent for ward. Our line had advanced nearly two miles in this way, but upon the rebel line coming in full view, they were halted and batteries and skirmishers opened fire upon them. About one o'clock P. M. Beatty's Second and Elliott's Third division of the Fourth corps, occupying the left of the Franklin road, opened upon the rebel line a heavy fire of artillery. Col. Charles; H. On the right little was done except heavy skirmishing, until about three o'clock r. m. when the Twenty-third corps made an advance on the enemy's extreme left which resulted in completely driving the rebels from their position with a loss of not less than fifsulted in completely driving the rebets from their position with a loss of not less than fifteen hundred prisoners and fourteen guns. Gur loss in to-day's fight cannot exceed two thousand killed and wounded.

The rebel loss in killed and wounded will not probably exceed ours, as they fought behind formidable intrenchments, but their loss in prisoners must reach at least five thousand. Our cavalry in the meantime had awung around the enemy's extreme left, going out on the Hillsboro pike, and must have done Hood great damage in his retreat, if they did not entirely cut it off.

FORTRESS MONROE, Dec. 15.

The Charleston Couries of the 10th says that Sherman's army is still moving towards Sarannah. Rhey learn the affair at Station No. i was simply a slight skirmish.

From the same paper of the 9th we take the ollowing:

ollowing:

The Augusta Chronicle says: We had the cleasure of sector yesterday Capt. Cooper, of den. Wilder's staff, who is now in our city in connection with the Confederate Prison Buceau, and whose headquarters are to be located in the city.

connection with the Confederate Prison Bureau, and whose headquarters are to be located in this city.

Captain Gooper informed us that all the Yankee prisoners at all the places within reach of Sherman have been safely removed. He also says that the Vandais were so disappointed at finding the blue-bellites had flown from Millin that they wrecked their spleen on the defenseless inhabitants of the country.

The Courier of the 9th says in relation to the Georgia forcet: We learn that Sunday last Lieut. Reynolds, of Gen. Wheeler's cavalry, with a detachment of fifteen men, crossed the Savannah river at Harper's Ferry, in the Beauford district. He had been engaged on a scouting expedition, and, becoming separated from his command, crossed into this State to reloin them higher rp.

He represents Sherman's army as occupying Branch Bridge, on Badger Greek, sixteen miles from the river. The opinions seems to be that Sherman will attack Carannah, but if he attempts it he will be badly beaten.

A report was in circulation on the 3th that on the arrival of Sherman's forces at Station No. 2 behad held off in the direction of Sisters Ferry, which would indicate his intention of crossing into South Carolina.

The enemy near Pocatogito Bridge was reported shelling the road on Fridgy.

About 100 prisoners from Sherman's army arrived this city yesterday.

Washingrox, Dec. 20.

Charleston and Savannah papers of the 9 hand 10th have been received here. They are evidently, but imperfectly, informed as to the movements of Sherman's army.

The Savannah News says that on the 6th the Union forces again made an attempt to take that railroad, but were repulsed and driven back. On the 7th they were reenforced and renewed the attack and fighting continued all day and had ceased at dark.

The News adds that the movement is no doubt a determined effort on the part of Foster to open a way for Sherman to escape. On ter to open a way for Sherman to escape. On the 9th a skirmish with the rebel outposts five miles from Savannah is mentioned.

NEW YORK, Dec. 16. Gold is strong in spite of the favorable news from Nashville and the coast. The demand for shipment is partially the cause of the firmness, but there is an additional speculative demand, though it is early seen upon what it is based. Ocening at 23434, the price fluctuated between 234 and 23436.

New York, Dec. 16.
The Tribune's Washington special says it was stated in conversation on the floor of the Senate to-day, that that the President had said that Sherman had come out at Savannah with forly thousand more men, blacks and whites, than he started with. HEADQ'RS ARMY OF THE PO TOMAC, December 15.

The Times reports a wonderful instance of the fortitude of a young man who was shot in the abdomen by a Minie ball, receiving a mortal wound. Still he held his ground and kept on firing, until a second ball crushed through the bridge of his nose. "And then," said he,

"I had to give up." The Times saye:

The events of the day may be briefly summed up thus: We acted on the aggressive, atticked the rebel fortifications and drove them back at every point, until at nightfall their left wing was at right angles with the position it held in the morning, took sixteen guns, over six hundred, and very probably twelve hundred, prisoners, and infliated on the enemy a heavier loss in killed and wounded than they did on us. All the advantages were clearly on our side yesterday, while at every point the rebels lost. We have held our entire line of works and driven the enemy from a large portion of his intrenchments. "I had to give up." The Times says:

Escape of Rebel Prisoners at Johnson's Island-They are Fired Upon and

Nearly all Recaptured. The Sandusky Register of the 14th has the ollowing secount of the attempted escape of prisoners from Johson's Island:

About 1 o'clock yesterday morning, by a preconcerted arrangement, a rush was made by twenty-four prisoners upon the center of the guard line, on the norshwest side of the prison. The prisoners had improvised eight scaling ladders by attaching "cleets" to boards and strips, very light, essily carried and just the thing for scaling the high prison fence.

The rush moon the guard at once occasioned the thing for scaling the high prison lence.

The rush upon the guard at once occasioned the proper cry, "Turn out the guard!" accompanied by quite a rattling fire from the guard line; bubthe rush was so impetuous and by so many different prisoners that, in spite of the efforts of the guard, four men out of twenty-four scaled the fence—passed the guard—caped from the island—crossed the north channel of the bay, and went some distance up the penisula. Of the others, who did not get through, one received a shot cutting away up the peninsula. Of the others, who did not get through, one received a shot cutting away his cast at the waist, was knocked down and captured. Another, Lieut. John B. Bowles, son of the President of the Louisville Bank, Kentucky, was shot twice through the body, about the same instant, and killed. The other eighteen found the work too hot and retreated to their barracks.

The rush upon the guard was immediately followed by the "long roll," and the proper signal gun. By the way, this was the first "long roll" occasioned by any demonstration of the prisoners since last March, and the only other one was on the night of the 23d of September, when at least one-third of the prison fence was swept away in an instant by son fence was swept away in an instant by Under a standing order all the troops were promptly in position, ready to give all proper attention to the rebels should any further effort be made within the inclosure. Of course effort be made within the inclosure. Of course it was impossible to say bow many of them had escaped, or exactly what had become of all of them. To make sure of any who might be lurking on the island, awaiting better opportunities to clude observation, three compusies of the Sixth regiment V. R. C. were orderdered out to patrol the island and make a further search.

At the same time several detachments of the One Hundred and Twenty-cighth regiment.

At the same time several detachments of the One Hundred and Twenty-eighth regiment were ordered off in pursuit of the escaped prisoners, who had passed the picket on the northwest side of the island, receiving a fire from them at long range. The fleeing rebeis made the best time possible, but were hotly pursued; and with the soldiers on their rear and both flanks, and the loyal citizens of the peninsula (who had been aroused by the discharge of the 20 pound Parrott) in their front, their escape soon terminated in (to them) a very mortifying recapture.

The morning roll-call and muster of prisoners showed that but four of them had left the prison.

FINANCE AND TRADE

OFFICE OF THE LOUISVILLE DEMOCRAT, In our general produce markets to-day nothing of in portance transpired in flour. The demand continues light and is confined almost entirely to the local trade Speculators seem to have but little confidence in the ature course of the trade, and are not buying. Stocks, however, are not large, and holders are still asking $8.75 to $9 for superfine, $9.50 to $9.75 for extra, and $10 to $10.75 for family, according to quality. Small sales are daily being made at these figures; but if round lots were arced on the market, concessions would have to be ing that were they to do so, they would be compelled to make the concessions which buyers demand. Owing to this difference between the views of buyers and sellers, there was comparatively little done. In the grain ma ket we have no change to note, the receipts being ligh with limited sales at yesterday's quotations. Groceries remain firm and dull, with no change

Government agents having withdrawn entirely from the market, while packers are not yet inclined to take hold to any extent. We heard that a sale of 400 head was made to-day at $11 75 gross, with a small premium per hog on that price. The receipts are very light, and the killing around the falls up to the present time with t amount to about 79,000 head. There are but few hog yet to arrive, and the killing this season will not exce

85,000 head. In the provision market we have no change to note Mess pork is still held firm at $40, but there does no seem to be much disposition to purchase to any consider rable extent at that figure. The only sale made to-day was 400 bbls new mess pork at $40.

There was an active demand for money, and the offerings of both approved and speculative paper were quit large. The bankers, however, did not seem disposed to extend their lines, and were cautious about discounting argely, and confined their attention almost exclusively to their regular customers, or those to whom they are under obligations. Rates of interest in the open market were 10 to 12 per cent.

The following are the quotations given by our banker afternoon:

DAILY REVIEW OF THE MARKET. FLOUR AND GRAIN—Flour is firm and dull, with sales of superfine at $8 80 to $9; extra family at $10 30 to $10 60; ncy family brands command $11 to $11 50. Wheat is m, with small sales reported to-day. Small sales of new uote at 78c to 80c. Barreno - We quote Cannellton at 75c for No. 1 and $1 for No. 2.

Bagging and Rorz-Sales of Bagging at 20c and Rope BECKWHEAT-We quote at 97 per hundred in quant iles and $8 at retail.

THE DUTIES OF SAINT AGNES HALL WILL RE resumed after the Christmas vacation, on Thursday, January seh, 1855, and the corporation desire to call the attention of parents and guardiase to the apperior facilities for a complete and thorough education. The location is most healthful, and the site of the Hall in the midst of ornamental grounds, eight and a half acres in extent, most beautiful and attractive. The buildings are most handsome and commodious, heated throughout by steam, and combining all the features requisite for the health and comfort of pupils. The instruction is practical and thorough and the Faculty, fourteen in number, distinguished for ability and experience. The Philosophical and Chemical apparatus is varied and extensive, and comorises among others, a most valuable Microscope, Telescope, and Electrical Machine. The more elegant accomplishments, Music Painting, Drawing, Embroidery, &c, receive especial attention. The discipline is firm and parental, it being the principle of this government to prevent racher than punish wrons.
